

TEACHING AMERICAN HISTORY

professional development projects
at Bristol Community College

FUTURE HISTORY

A Teaching American History Professional Development Project
is proud to present

D r . D o n n a G a b a c c i a

Thursday March 8, 2007, 4 PM
Building C, Room 111 (DeMauro Lecture Hall)
Bristol Community College

Donna Gabaccia is the Rudolph J. Vecoli Professor at the University of Minnesota, where she is also the director of the Immigration History Research Center. As a specialist on international migrations, she has a particular interest in immigrant life in the United States and in Italian migration around the world. Her interests in food, women and gender, and labor have encouraged her to explore the United States, and U.S. immigration history, from comparative, transnational, interdisciplinary, and global perspectives. She is the author of several works including Immigrant Lives in the U.S.: Multi-disciplinary Perspectives (New York: Routledge, 2004).

Andrew Jay Hoffman, PhD, Projects Director
777 Elsbree Street * Fall River MA 02720 * 508-678-2811-x2914 * tah@bristol.mass.edu